DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This is a tall, rectangular, 2-1/2 story detached brick building, five wide bays in depth and three bays wide with a newer protruding front tower-entrance section and a newer, one bay deep, two bay wide rear extension. In the newer front facade left bay is a protruding square tower with buttressed corners decorated with white cast stone buttress caps. On the left side and front of this tower are leaded, stained glass Gothic windows and Gothic shaped louvers on the third story level. The top of the tower is adorned by the corner buttresses rising above the roofline in the form of turrets with pyramid shaped cast stone caps. In the base of this tower is a Gothic arched section of double doors with panels topped by three leaded, stained glass segments and the whole hooded by being slightly recessed. To the right of this, the front of the church is topped by a large pediment with the right corner buttresses protruding and adorned as on the tower. In the center of this section on the second story level is a large Gothic arched, stained glass window (leaded) of the "Good Shephard" and on either side are shorter, narrow Gothic arched leaded, stained glass windows. Directly below these are similarly sectioned leaded, stained glass windows but flat arched of soldier course brick. In the sidewalls are four rectangular, flat arched leaded stained glass windows with wood lintels and sills on the second story church nave level and regular 1/1 sash frosted windows with wood lintels and sills on the first floor. The right sidewall is quite thick at the first floor level but corbelled in at the second story, except for brick piers rising to the roof. The metal roof is of moderate slope "A" frame construction resting on three string brick cornices on each side. The building rests on a low foundation and in the front is a grass plot and planting of yew.
